Lunch & Learn: Early Intervention Overview From birth to 5 years, a child should reach milestones in how he/she plays, learns, speaks and acts. A delay in any of these areas could be a sign of a developmental problem. The good news is, the earlier it's recognized the more a child can be helped to reach his/her full potential. Learn how to spot developmental delays and what to do if you have a concern about your child.	When: February 14, 2023, 1100-1200 Where: Virtual	Call 703-693-5353 for more information To RSVP by email us at ombefmp.eventregistration@usmc-mccs.org by February 10, 2023

LENDING LIBRARY

Spotlight

Wrightslaw: From Emotions to Advocacy provides five sections on advocacy, parent expertise, special education law, and tactics and strategies. It is the perfect resource on how to speak with school personnel and advocate for your child's needs.

Wrightslaw: All About IEPs is a FAQ book answering over 200 questions. It guides you through scenarios and describes legal issues that you may encounter if you have a child with a disability who receives special education services. The book will outline your rights and responsibilities and explain the law in plain language you can understand.

Weighted vests and blankets are used as a part of the Sensory Integration (SI) therapy technique of deep pressure. The deep pressure assists to relax and self-calm, allowing sensory stimulus to be more easily processed. Deep pressure stimulation or sensory regulation is known to produce more dopamine as well as serotonin in the body, which help people feel calm and more relaxed.

Weighted vests are perfect for children who are easily distracted, hyperactive, or lacking in concentration.

Weighted blankets are heavy blankets that are weighed down by glass beads, and other types of fillers, to promote deep touch pressure.
